NUMBER 47

KILLED IN RUN'WAY

Mrs. Emma Moore and Mrs. Nora Happy of Mayview, the Victims.

RETURNING FROM CHURCH

Accident Happened About 10 o'clock Friday Night. Found Saturday Morning About 6 o'clock.

Saturday morning about six o'clock the dead bodies of Mrs. Emma Moore and Mrs. Nora Happy were found by the road side about a mile and a half south of Mayview.

The two women who are sisters and near neighbors, were in Mayview Friday night and attended a revival service at the Baptist church. On their way home, the supposition is, that the horse became frightened, ran away, and in making a slight bend in the road threw the women out of the buggy. The bodies were found by Gus Heiderdrink and Frank Sanders, two carpenters. They noticed a badly smashed buggy at the road side and on investigating found the bodies, one was lying on her back and the other just a short distance away on her face, indicating in both cases that death was almost instantaneous. The horse had broken loose and wandered away.

Mrs. Moore, who resides with her son, Clarence, three miles south of Mayview, left her home in the afternoon to call upon her sister, Mrs. Happy who lived but a short distance away. On leaving, she told her son that she and Mrs. Happy would probably attend the revival service in Mayview that evening and would not be home. Mrs. Moore frequently spent the night with Mrs. Happy, who was a widow without children, consequently no search was made when Mrs. Moore did not return.

FARMERS' WEEK AT

M. U. JAN. 3-7

Record Breaking Attendance Is Expected at Annual Farmers' Short Course at Columbia.

A better way to do everything about the farm should be learned by the farmer who attends the Farmers' Short Course in Agriculture, given under the direction of the College of Agriculture during Farmers' Week at the University of Missouri at Columbia January 3-7.

There will be eight different lines of lectures and demonstrations in the Farmers' Short Course. These will include animal husbandry, farm crops, farm management, horticulture, poultry, dairying, rural economics and the work of the rural ministers. All these courses will be given continuously. The Missouri Homemakers' Conference and many other state agricultural organizations will meet at Columbia during Farmers' Week.

The Farmers' Short Course in Agriculture will last from 8 to 3 o'clock each day. The night sessions of the week will be under the direction of the Missouri State Board of Agriculture. These sessions will be largely popular lectures. Men of national prominence will be on the programs. The Farmers' Short Course should not be confused with the Two-Year Winter Course now in session at the college of Agriculture. The Farmers' course is for men who cannot attend the seven weeks' classes.

Officials at the College of Agriculture are planning to take care of the largest crowd that has ever attended a Farmers' conference anywhere in the United States. They expect the record attendance of 2,810 last year to be broken.

Programs for the Farmers' Short Course will be ready for distribution by November 30. These will show in detail the lectures and demonstrations and the men who have charge of them. A program will be sent anyone applying after November 30, to the College of Agriculture, University of Missouri, Columbia, Mo.

M. U. HOME COMING

Missouri-Kansas Football Game and Alumni Reunions Planned for Visitors at Columbia, Nov. 25.

Ten thousand alumni, former students and friends will attend the home coming at the University of Missouri at Columbia November 25 and see the 25th annual Missouri-Kansas Football game. Excursion rates on railroads running from all parts of the state to Columbia will carry visitors there and back home for about half fare.

ANOTHER BOOTLEGGER CAUGHT

Arrested Saturday Night at Odessa. Had Ninety Pints of Whiskey.

Deputy Sheriffs Joe Waddell and Ben McDowell went to Odessa Saturday night and arrested George Arnett, (col.), for bootlegging. Of course, George was innocent and invited the officers to search every nook and corner of his home. The officers knowing all the while where the booze was to be found, accompanied him, and after the house had been gone over, they opined that they would like to look over George's coal house. George was still game, and conducted the officers to the coal house. This was found to be empty, but the coal house had a separate compartment which was under padlock. No, George hadn't the key, as that particular room belonged to a neighbor. The officers removed the lock and found therein an old cupboard. Now that old cupboard looked as innocent as George did when arrested, but it was groaning under a load of NINETY pints of "American Pride," and bottled in bond, if you please. The booze is now artistically arranged on a shelf in the vault of the Sheriff's office. Arnett was brought to Lexington and placed in jail. Monday he was released on a $500 bond signed by Arthur Sandusky, A. D. Campbell and Henry Barker, all of Odessa.
